The FDIC does not charge a bank's depositors for deposit insurance or require banks to pass the cost of deposit insurance on to their depositors. The FDIC allows a bank to recoup the cost of deposit insurance from its depositors, so long as the fee the bank charges its depositors does not reveal information that could be used to determine the bank's confidential supervisory ratings or mislead depositors by implying the FDIC is charging the fee. The Bank assesses this recoupment fee to partially recover insurance premiums it pays to the FDIC. The amount of the recoupment fee appears on your monthly Demand Deposit Account Analysis Statement and is based on your average Ledger Balance.
